Overcoming obstacles

through play

Welcome to our 2019 catalogue!

Adults often forget that play is powerful, but it is the most encouraging force known to children.

It is through play that children push themselves, demonstrate abilities and achieve goals. Therefore no one young or old should be prevented from playing.

TFH have been overcoming obstacles to play for 35 years: we curate a catalogue that is translated into 8 languages, our partners distribute in 13 countries and the special needs toys we manufacture are sold in over 100 countries.

Please enjoy our catalogue, its design is aimed at guiding you to the right toy. Everyone is different, but many goals and difficulties are shared, we use those to group our range.

We hope that it will inspire you to get in touch, we need help to improve and we love to hear from you.

Peter Tidmarsh
Managing Director TFH UK.

Feast your eyes on our VISUAL Senses Chapter!

Sensory processing refers to our ability to take in information through our senses. Our visual perception is how our brain processes, interprets and makes sense of what we see.

Visual perception can refer to blindness but, it can also be an inability to recognise elements of visual information. For example, faces, objects, people, lights, and or backgrounds.

If you are looking for products that will encourage peripheral vision or visual tracking, you should start here.

Note, many sensory skills do overlap. Visual hand-eye coordination may be best served by products found in other chapters such as MOTOR or SOCIALISATION.

9NGVD

Auditory processing disorder (APD) or Auditory Hypersensitivity can affect people of all ages, but it often starts in childhood.

It can affect your ability to understand speech, distinguish sounds, and concentrate around background noise.

But it doesn't have to be a barrier when it comes to playtime! We provide a wide range of fun auditory toys to help explore and develop this important sense.

Look out for our Resonance selection which magnifies the vibration inherent in sound, enabling us to feel as well as hear sounds.

Look in COMMUNICATION for musical instruments and find noisy puzzles in COGNITION.

Typically we think of music as being 'heard' by the ear, our most sensitive organ to the vibrations in the air. When the notes are very deep we also feel them with our body. Such vibration is the basis of Vibroacoustic therapy. The TFH Resonance Range magnifies musical vibrations so they are felt more easily. All Resonance items require a Hi-Fi

Welcome to the TACTILE chapter!

Our skin is our largest sensory organ. Tickling labels and unfamiliar fabrics can be annoying but, for those who are tactile defensive or sensitive, it can be unbearable.

We believe that exposure to new textures can be fun and that through controlled tactile play we can widen our senses and reduce unpleasant experiences.

Products in this section have been specially chosen for the tactile seekers among us. Products may help to reduce mouthing and other self-stimulatory behaviours.

Note, if you are looking for toys that vibrate, take a look at our PROPRIOCEPTION chapter which also carries items to squeeze, brush, and apply forms of deep pressure.

Develop your understanding of PROPRIOCEPTION in this chapter.

Proprioception makes up a large part of sensory therapy. But, what is it and how does it work? Proprioception is, essentially, an awareness of one's own body; its movement, balance and how all parts relate to one another.

The body's Proprioception is controlled by receptors (in skin, muscles, and joints) that connect with the brain through the nervous system. This system ensures that, even without seeing, a person knows what his or her body is doing.

Children who are clumsy, uncoordinated, and sensory seeking are often experiencing some degree of proprioceptive dysfunction.

Products in this section have been chosen for their ability to help with the concept of body awareness. Any product that encourages reaching, or helps with positioning or balance will also have this benefit, try COGNITION for building blocks, MOTOR for balance, and MSE for beanbags.

You can't make an omelette without breaking eggs, and you can't break an egg without Proprioception, our secret sense which not only gives us our body's position but also guides our muscles to resist forces or to exert our own. When we are required to gauge just how much force to use we rely on Proprioception. Measured strength is useful in many tasks and improves our body-awareness, co-ordination, stability and balance.

Squash | Proprioception

From being wrapped in swaddling blanket, to being tucked in at bedtime – “Sleep tight!” – to pulling a top tight around shoulders against a dark evening, there is something inherently comforting and calming about being tightly wrapped. Think of it like white noise or a blank canvas for your proprioceptive sense. Weighted products employ ‘Deep Pressure Touch Stimulation’, steady proprioceptive stimulation that balances other sensory “noise”, reducing distraction and the craving to self-stimulate.

Ball Blanket

Our deeply calming Ball Blanket has no seams and is made from in hospital-grade bedding material. Very easy to thoroughly clean.

9PEPD

The VESTIBULAR sense is a key element in sensory integration therapy.

Children and adults who are sensory challenged will often use toys that spin or bounce to stimulate their vestibular system - or their inner ear. The inner ear helps with balance and lets the body know when, and how fast, it is moving.

Some of our favourite vestibular activities involve playground accessories such as swings, trampolines, bouncers, and rockers. These recreational activities are self-paced and fun, making them ideal for both stimulating the under-responsive child and calming for the over-responsive or sensory seeking child.

Turn the page to view our stock of confidence boosting swings and other active products which, through weight shifting, stimulate the vestibular sense.

Products that use balance can also be found in the MOTOR Chapter.

VESTIBULAR

We are well known for our swing frames and accessories. These are not the cheapest frames but they are very high quality. TFH frames are made from 2" O/D galvanised steel with nylon swing bearings. The wide splay of the legs, in relation to the frame height, and the twisted stakes give maximum stability.

Single Swing (Frame only)

Our strongest frame, recommended for the Adult seats. Included with the Wheelchair Platform Swing. Max 160kg. 150kg max.

• H: 228 x W: 226 x D: 245cm

8TSFS

EN1176 Certified Single Frame

Perfect for use by Schools, Hospitals, Nursing homes and other Institutional settings. Councils or other bodies considering our EN1176 certified Frame for a public playground must take further advice as they are not built to withstand vandalism.

8TSFS7

WHICH FRAME WILL FIT YOUR SPACE?

The diagrams (below) only show frame space. Safety regulations require 6.5 feet clear space all around.

Vestibular | Frames

Treble Swing (Frame only)

Our largest frame on which 3 swings can be hung. Max 64kg per seat. Max 120kg total and 64kg per suspension.

• H: 228 x W: 376 x D: 245cm

8TSFT

EN1176 Certified Treble Frame

8TSFT7

Double Swing (Frame only)

A very popular frame on which 2 swings can be hung. Max 64 kg per seat.

• H: 228 x W: 318 x D: 245cm

8TSFD

EN1176 Certified Double Frame

Perfect for use by Schools, Hospitals, Nursing homes and other Institutional settings. Councils or other bodies considering our EN1176 certified Frame for a public playground must take further advice as they are not built to withstand vandalism.

8TSFD7

8WHSW

Sensory Integration Beam

This heavy duty frame will be made to measure. Two sturdy wall-supports and a cross beam. Our clever track allows a child to choose from 4 different swings without disconnecting any of them, encouraging participation throughout the process. Swings not included.

8SIBM

The Beam has 2 parallel T tracks, so 4 items can be interchanged very easily.

1. The Seat is moved to one side.

2. Now any item can be moved into the swing space.

Ever since Jean Ayers identified* the importance of Sensory Integration (SI), and suggested a link with our vestibular sense, therapists have been including a regimen of swinging and spinning in their programs. It is possible* that a stimulated Vestibular helps the brain organise and process other sensory input. At TFH we believe in fun, and at this price you can experiment for yourself. *Sensory Integration and the Child, 1979. * An important area for future research is to evaluate Sensory Integration in studies with strong experimental designs. Professionals should present Sensory Integration as untested and encourage families who are considering this intervention to evaluate it carefully - The Association for Science in Autism Treatment (ASAT).

8JUMP

MOTOR skills are simply actions that involve the movement and control of muscles.

The motor skills we use can be split up into gross motor skills (body spatial awareness, balance, and control when crawling, jumping, running etc.) and fine motor skills (using smaller muscles to touch, feel, pick up, pinch, grab etc.).

Studies find that individuals with sensory challenges may struggle to develop such skills.

However, these obstacles can be overcome and, even better, we can encourage, strengthen, and develop motor skills through fun and play!

We collect and design fun motor toys and games that compliment any sensory diet! So, turn the page and ask not what a product can do for you but, what you can do with a product.

6SLSL

Our COGNITIVE segment works towards increasing confidence, improving self-esteem and overcoming everyday obstacles - whilst having fun!

A person's COGNITIVE sense can refer to their ability to reason, reflect, remember, recognise, problem solve, understand, learn, and or pay attention. Each cognitive skill helps the brain to process and make sense of new information.

Once information is processed, it is then stored and can be used again to form appropriate responses and make sense of everyday tasks or experiences.

Themes including sports, school, home life, and comfort can all be explored in this section of the catalogue. Encourage cognitive development through fun memory, concentration, and perception activities.

Buddy

Wonderful wide wheels mean great days out. Enjoy lovely days at the beach. The Buddy is easily adapted for comfort. Easy to set up and use. The ride is smooth and comfortable, and much easier than dragging a wheelchair across difficult terrain. Having arrived the Buddy can be used by any member of the family as a lounge chair, but it's particularly useful as a platform: Working at a comfortable height when changing or rinsing-off sand. The Buddy makes things easier for carers and for anyone with additional needs, giving an opportunity to enjoy a trip out that otherwise would not have been practical. "We would not have been able to make him comfortable without having the Buddy there and we felt so grateful to have a product designed with children like Will in mind" - Sophie.

8BUDD

Self-expression and COMMUNICATION are important components of sensory development and integration therapy.

Furthermore, we all have a desire to express ourselves in one way or another. In this COMMUNICATION section, you can explore the methods that work best for you. We have developed fun and stimulating products that encourage collaborative play, self-expression, and aid communication and socialization through art, music, construction, vocalisation, and story-telling.

Turn the page to find out more!

Our catalogue also has many products in the VISUAL and AUDITORY sections that can help calm and reinforce positive behaviours and help to build upon self-regulatory and social skills.

Empathy dolls are widely known for their ability to trigger the caring instinct. Without asking anything in return their emotive faces, substantial bodies and detailed finish help unlock the children and adults who come in to contact with them. These beautifully designed and constructed dolls create opportunities for referring to the doll's imaginary feelings, and help create opportunities for open and meaningful expression.

At TFH we have been designing and installing Multi Sensory Environments (MSE) for over 25 years in a variety of settings including schools, hospitals, and private homes.

While every Multi Sensory Environment is designed to suit our clients' requirements, the goal is always to provide a safe and rewarding environment within which the normal rules do not apply.

Rich sensory spaces react to the user, allowing individuals to affect and even control their world.

Touch screen technology is rapidly changing the potential of MSE, but a TFH installation will always be simple to use. That's the point!

9BC200N

Bubble Columns are the visual focal point of a multi-sensory room.

A really good Bubble Column has bright controllable colours: its quiet pump is powerful and can be controlled by a user with a switch.

Airflow in a TFH Column can also be easily adjusted to effect the mood of the space: a gentle flow is more relaxing; full power is highly stimulating; and 3 pulse patterns make the space come alive.

Our columns are all strongly built and thoroughly tested in our UK workshop.

They will not leak.

We highly recommend the addition of a Security Bracket and if space allows, a Podium.

There are many variations of Fibre Optics. All of them provide great visual stimulation and offer scope for a tremendous tactile experience. All TFH light sources are switch-operated so enjoyment can lead to activity. Fibre Optics can define a space within which the rules can be a little different or they can provide an opening; Wearing Fibre Optics as a scarf, the most tactile defensive among us may allow others into their space to look at the tails.

The Projector is the heart of a Multi-Sensory Environment, casting gently moving images and patterns onto the walls, floor and anyone in the way. Projection Curtains double the impact of the projector, as the image is projected both on and through the sheer material. Projection Curtains allow you to actually touch the images without casting a shadow, creating a relaxing, almost fluid space, completely surrounded by light. Add a fan to stimulate the curtains or a Panoramic Rotator to send the images flowing around the room and you have created an environment in which the normal rules have changed. Different behaviours will be exhibited; what can you make of them? Both Projectors can be secured to a shelf or to the ceiling by a swivel point that allows the image to be moved while holding the projector safely in one place.

8ROPB

Bag of Fun One

16 mid-sized vinyl covered softplay shapes in a bag. • 15kgs

8BBFN

TO CALCULATE REQUIRED NUMBER OF BALL POOL BALLS

To achieve a 10 layer thickness of balls divide the internal area (in cms) by 5.
eg 2m x 1m = 200 x 100 = 20,000.

$$20,000 \div 5 = 4,000$$

So 4,000 Balls would fill to about 10 layers.
